DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs Michelle E. De Sousa, Jose De Jesus De Sousa, and BraNovations, Inc. (collectively “Plaintiff”) submit this memorandum of law in support of its ex parte application for: 1) a temporary restraining order; 2) an order restraining assets and Merchant Storefronts (as defined infra); 3) an order to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not issue; and 4) an order authorizing expedited discovery against above-referenced Defendants (hereinafter collectively referred to as “Defendants” or individually as “Defendant”), and the third parties, Amazon Services, LLC d/b/a Amazon.com, and Amazon Payments, Inc. d/b/a Amazon Pay (collectively “Amazon”), Whaleco Inc., a Delaware Corporation, which is a wholly owned subsidiary of Pinduoduo Inc. which is owned by PDD Holdings (collectively, “Temu”), eBay, Inc. d/b/a ebay.com, Walmart Inc. and Wal-Mart.com USA, LLC, wish.com, Alibaba.com US LLC d/b/a Alibaba.com and Aliexpress.com (“Third Party Service Providers”) and financial institutions, including but not limited to, Zhejiang Ant Small and Micro Financial Services Group Co., Ltd. AliPay (China) Internet Technology Co. Ltd., and Alipay.com Co., Ltd.

(collectively referred to as “AliPay”)¹, Amazon Payments, Inc., Walmart Pay, Klarna, Inc. d/b/a Klarna, PayPal, Inc. d/b/a paypal.com, and Context Logic, Inc. d/b/a wish.com (“Financial Institutions”).

Defendants are knowingly and intentionally promoting, advertising, distributing, offering for sale, and selling patent infringing versions of Plaintiff’s CLEAVA® and SNAPPY CAMI® brand mock camisoles (the “Infringing Product”) which infringe at least one claim of U.S. Patent No. 8,152,591 (“Plaintiff’s Patent”) and some of the Defendants are copying Plaintiff’s photographs and advertising (“Plaintiff’s Works”), throughout the United States, including within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and this district, by operating fully interactive, commercial Internet based e-commerce stores established via third-party marketplaces accessible in Pennsylvania operating using the seller identities identified on Schedule “A” to the Complaint (the “Seller IDs”). Specifically, Plaintiff has obtained evidence clearly demonstrating that (a) Defendants have willfully infringed one or more of the claims of Plaintiff’s Patent by offering for sale, selling, and distributing knock-off versions of Plaintiff’s Product; and (b) Defendants accomplish their infringing sales through the use of, at least, the Internet based e-commerce stores operated via at least one of the electronic storefronts on AliExpress, Amazon.com, eBay.com, Temu, Walmart.com, and wish.com Internet marketplace platforms. Based on this evidence, Plaintiff’s Complaint alleges a claim for patent infringement pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271 (a).

Shown below are examples of three example Infringing Products offered for sale by the Defendants and which are the subject of this lawsuit²:

As likely poorly designed and manufactured products, the product may disappoint a customer who may give the product a bad review. Id. at ¶ 18.

According to the Fiscal Year 2021 U.S. Customs and Border Protection (“CBP”) Intellectual Property Seizure Statistics Report, e-commerce sales have resulted in a sharp increase in the shipment of unauthorized products into the United States. Declaration of Stanley D. Ference III (the “Ference Dec.”) at ¶ 3. Over 89% of all CBP intellectual property seizures were smaller international mail and express shipments (as opposed to large shipping containers). Id. Over half (51%) of CBP seizures originated from mainland China and Hong Kong. Id. An analysis by Daniel C.K. Chow, in “Alibaba, Amazon, and Counterfeiting in the Age of the Internet,” 40 NW. J. INT’L L. & BUS. 157, 186 (2020), finds that third-party service providers do not adequately subject new sellers to verification and confirmation of their identities, allowing counterfeiters to “routinely use false or inaccurate names and addresses when registering with these e-commerce platforms.” Id. at ¶ 4. A report prepared by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security’s Office of Strategy, Policy, and Plans (January 2020) finds that counterfeiters hedge against the risk of being caught and having their websites taken down from an e-commerce platform by preemptively establishing multiple virtual storefronts. Since platforms generally do not require marketplace sellers to identify the underlying business entity, counterfeiters have many different profiles even though they are commonly owned and operated. Id. at ¶ 5.

Defendants’ unlawful activities have deprived and continue to deprive Plaintiff of its rights to fair competition. By their activities, Defendants are defrauding Plaintiff and the consuming public for Defendants’ benefit. Defendants should not be permitted to continue their unlawful activities, which are causing Plaintiff ongoing irreparable harm. Accordingly, Plaintiff is seeking entry of a temporary restraining order prohibiting Defendants' further infringement of at least one claim of Plaintiff's Patent and against some of the Defendants who are copying Plaintiff's images in order to unfairly compete.

Moreover, Plaintiff has obtained evidence that Defendants use money transfer and/or retention/processing services with financial institutions such as Amazon, Alipay, Paypal, Klarna, Walmart Pay, and Context Logic, Inc. See Declaration of Declaration of Dee Odell (the "Odell Dec.") ¶¶ 1 - 3, and Declaration of Brian Samuel Malkin ("Malkin Dec."), ¶¶ 1 – 15, filed herewith. Plaintiff seeks to restrain Defendants' assets. In light of the inherently deceptive nature of the infringing and knock-off business, Plaintiff has good reason to believe Defendants will hide or transfer their ill-gotten assets beyond the jurisdiction of this Court unless they are restrained. Plaintiff is aware that the Third Party Service Providers and Financial Institutions will submit to the Court's jurisdiction and comply with Court's orders concerning such restraints. See Malkin Dec., generally. In Pennsylvania, a pre-judgment restraint of existing assets is appropriate where a plaintiff asserts a claim for money damages.³ Walter v. Stacey, 837 A.2d 1205 (Pa. Super. 2003) (injunction entered restraining assets in action seeking damages for a wrongful death); Hoxworth v. Blinder, Robinson & Co., Inc., 903 F.2d 186 (3d Cir. 1990) (affirming injunction entered restraining assets in class action lawsuit). To prevent the depletion of ill-gotten gains of the Defendants and the ability to at least partially satisfy a judgment,

³ Fed. R. Civ. P. 64 provides "every remedy is available that, under the law of the state where the court is located, provides for seizing a person or property to secure satisfaction of the potential judgment." These remedies include, arrest, attachment, garnishment, replevin, sequestration, and corresponding or equivalent remedies. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 64 (b). In the case of Grupo Mexicana de Desarrollo v Alliance Bond Fund, 527 U. S. 308 (1990), the Supreme Court considered the issue of asset restraint in the context of a money damages only case and not one of equitable interest like Plaintiff's case. In the instant case involving Plaintiff's request for a pre-judgment restraint, based upon an injunction flowing from Plaintiff's patent rights, Plaintiff claims an equitable interest in the proposed restrained accounts. The ill-gotten gains obtained by selling its infringing products directly flow into the proposed restrained account. There was no such fact pattern in Grupo and thus it does not speak to this situation. Moreover, the Court indicated that it was not determining whether the law of the forum state provided the availability of such an injunction under Rule 65. Id., n. 3.

Plaintiff seek an ex parte order restraining Defendants' asset, including specifically, funds transmitted through the Financial Institutions. Courts in our district have previously granted the relief sought herein in actions involving claims for trademark counterfeiting and patent infringement. See generally, Request for Judicial Notice and cases cited therein. II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. Plaintiff's Innovative Product

Michelle E. De Sousa is a co-inventor and owner and president of the Plaintiff company, BraNovations, Inc., the exclusive licensee of the Plaintiff's patented CLEAVA[®] and SNAPPY CAMI[®] brand mock camisoles. Together with her husband and co-inventor, Jose De Jesus De Sousa, they are collectively the Plaintiff bringing this lawsuit. (De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 1 - 2). The Plaintiff's innovative mock camisoles are a garment and brassiere accessories that are worn under a top, easily adjust for size, fasten to a brassiere, cover cleavage, and thus provide a user with the ability to wear short tops and dresses in situations that require modest attire. Plaintiff's patented products are sold under the registered trademarks CLEAVA® and SNAPPY CAMI® are protected by multiple utility and design patents both here in the United States and Internationally De Sousa Dec., ¶ 5.

Plaintiff's Product has been featured in videos, articles, or podcasts by numerous media outlets. De Sousa Dec., ¶ 6.

Plaintiff's Product is sold under the brand names CLEAVA® and SNAPPY CAMI®, and is widely legitimately advertised and promoted by Plaintiff, its authorized distributors, and unrelated third parties via the Internet. De Sousa Dec., ¶ 7. Over the past several years, visibility on the Internet, particularly via Internet search engines such as Google, Yahoo!, and Bing have become increasing important to Plaintiff's overall marketing. Id.

Thus, Plaintiff and its authorized distributors expend significant monetary resources on Internet marketing, including search engine optimization ("SEO") strategies. De Sousa Dec., ¶ 8. Other costs include print catalog ads, tradeshow, and handing out free samples. Id. Those strategies allow Plaintiff and its authorized retailers to fairly and legitimately educate consumers about the value associated with Plaintiff's brand and the goods sold thereunder. Id. Similarly, Defendants' individual seller's stores are indexed on search engines and compete directly with Plaintiff for space in the search results. Id.

B. Plaintiff's Rights

Plaintiff has taken numerous steps to protect Plaintiff's Product.⁴ De Sousa Dec., ¶ 9.

The Plaintiff's Product is designed to quickly attach to a brassiere, adjust to the correct size, convert a short top or dress into a modest manner of dress. The Plaintiff's Product retails for between $19.99 and $39.99 (pictured below):

(De Sousa Dec., ¶ 10)

The unique features of Plaintiff's Product, including the distinct photographs, the design, the instructions, the packaging, and the unique presentation of the product, all comprise Plaintiff's valuable intellectual property ("IP") and all have become distinct in consumer's minds such that consumers associate all of this IP with Plaintiff's Product. De Sousa Dec., ¶ 11. Screenshots of Plaintiff's Website and Amazon Store are attached as Complaint Exhibit 2.

⁴ U. S. A Utility Patents No.'s 8,062,093-B2 and 8,152,591-B2 and 8,257,139 B2, U. S. A Design Patent No. D661,463 S, U. S. A. Registered Trademarks No.'s 3,748,662 and 3,950,573, Nigeria Utility Patent No. NG/C/1212/628, South Africa Utility Patent No. 2012/03020 and 2012/09413, Israel Utility Patent No. 218,817, Australia Utility Patent No. 2011253119, Mexico Utility Patent No. MX/a/2012/2012/003579, Mongolia Utility Patent No.3936, New Zealand Utility Patent No. NZ 599,573, Philippines Utility Patent No. 2012-500615, Algeria Utility Patent No. 120848, Japan Utility Patent No. 571 9489, Canada Utility Patent No. CA 2,812,384 / CA 2,812,530, Singapore Utility Patent No. 185536, and Tunisia Utility Patent No. 23122.

The innovative features of Plaintiff's Product are the subject of U.S. Patent No. 8,152,591, for a "GARMENT AND BRASSIERE ACCESSORY." A copy of the patent is attached to the Complaint as Exhibit 3. De Sousa Dec., ¶ 12.

Due to the success of Plaintiff's Product, Plaintiff has become the target of multiple infringers seeking to profit from the goodwill and reputation and fame enjoyed by Plaintiff's Product. Defendants have flooded the market with cheap imitations and caused Plaintiff's sales and profit to plummet. De Sousa Dec., ¶ 13

C. Plaintiff's Efforts to Police the Defendants' Conduct

The Defendants use the interactive commercial Internet websites and Internet based e-commerce stores using the Seller IDs set forth on "Schedule A" to the Complaint. See Odell Dec., ¶¶ 2 - 3. These interactive commercial Internet websites provide on-line Merchant Storefronts (as defined infra) that allow the Defendants to maintain their anonymity while advertising, offering for sale, and selling Infringing Products into the United States and into Pennsylvania. The Internet marketplaces used by these Defendants include AliExpress, Amazon.com, eBay.com, Joybuy, Temu, Walmart.com and wish.com. See Odell Dec., ¶¶ 2 -3 and Composite Exhibit 1 attached thereto.

Plaintiff has been forced to police the various Internet marketplaces to identify and seek takedowns of unlawful listings for the Infringing Products since allowing the unlawful listings to continue is causing damage to Plaintiff's reputation and bottom line. De Sousa Dec., at ¶ 14. Some Defendants sell the Infringing Product at a fraction of the controlled retail price. Id. Because of the software provided by the various Internet marketplaces, the lowest priced items are sorted to the top and/or promoted by the software and then purchased by the consumers. Id. The Plaintiff's Product is ignored. Id. Plaintiff has had varied success in identifying and requesting takedowns of the various unlawful listings and as soon as one is taken down another unlawful listing replaces it. Id.

Another major problem with the Internet marketplaces is that there is a direct and convenient connection between various Chinese⁵ and other unidentified manufactures to the Infringing Products. Id. In essence, a counterfeiter in Vietnam or Russia, for example, may order a crate of Infringing Products from a Chinese manufacturer, have them drop shipped to a fulfillment center in the United States, and then sell the Infringing Products to a US consumer through a Third-Party Service Provider. Id. The ease of this system encourages counterfeits to flourish. Id.

For these reasons, Plaintiff retained the legal counsel of Ference & Associates LLC (“the Ference firm”) to perform the policing of various Internet marketplaces. Id. at ¶ 15. During the process, the Ference firm identified many Chinese manufacturers operating on Marketplace Storefronts hosted by the Internet marketplaces. See id. These manufacturers were supplying many of the other identified Defendants with Infringing Products flooding the Internet marketplaces and damaging Plaintiff’s business. This damage to Plaintiff’s business will continue unless Plaintiff receives the sought after restraining order and injunctive relief. Id.

Defendants’ sales, distribution, and advertising of the Infringing Product are highly likely to cause consumers to believe that Defendants are offering genuine versions of Plaintiff’s Products when in fact they are not. De Sousa Dec., ¶ 16.

⁵ Prior to filing this lawsuit, Plaintiff viewed a public seller profile that is published by each Defendant’s storefront that purports to identify the name and address of the Defendant. Solely based upon their representation on their storefronts, the following defendants have identified themselves as US-based and are not at this time alleged to be foreign sellers: 77SuperSevens77, A whole lotta everything, Atomic Punk Inc., avalonbon, behindthepretty, BJG Deals, buckshaw25, cellrite727, cestformidable2014, copaseticalcat, elanza771, Esukceso, EverydayGadgetz, gaslooten, GreenThreads23, krist3497, Pousch Outlet, Sixtyshadesofgrey, tlgoodson75, FATTAH, Trim Trim Store.

D. The Defendants' Wrongful Conduct

The Defendants use the interactive commercial Internet websites and Internet based e-commerce stores using the seller identities and store names set forth on Schedule "A" to willfully infringe one or more of the claims of U.S. Patent No. 8,152,591 ("Plaintiff's Patent") by offering for sale, selling, and distributing knock-off versions of Plaintiff's CLEAVA[®] and SNAPPY CAMI[®] brand mock camisoles ("Infringing Products"). De Sousa Dec., ¶ 4.

Defendants do not have, nor have they ever had, the right or authority to infringe upon at least one claim of the Plaintiff's Patent for any purpose. De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 20 - 23. Despite their known lack of authority, however, Defendants are promoting, selling, offering for sale and distributing goods that infringe on at least one claim of the Plaintiff's without Plaintiff's authorization. Id.

As part of Plaintiff's counsel's ongoing investigation regarding the sale of Infringing Products, Plaintiff's counsel investigated the promotion and sale of Infringing Products by Defendants and obtained available payment account data for receipt of funds by Defendants for the sale of infringing versions of Plaintiff's Product through the Seller IDs. Odell Dec., ¶¶ 2 -3. Through visual inspection of Defendants' listings for Infringing Products, it was confirmed that each Defendant is selling knock-offs infringing upon at least one claim of the Plaintiff's Patent, without authorization, which are, in fact, not genuine products. Id. The checkout pages or order forms for the Infringing Products confirm that each Defendant was and/or is still currently offering for sale and/or selling Infringing Products through their respective Merchant Storefronts and User Accounts and that each Defendant provides shipping and/or has actually shipped

Infringing Products to the United States⁶, including to customers located in Pennsylvania. At checkout, a shipping address located in the Pittsburgh area (“the Pennsylvania Address”) in the Western District of Pennsylvania verified that each Defendant provides shipping to the Pennsylvania Address. Id. De Sousa inspected the detailed web listings describing the Infringing Products Defendants are offering for sale through the Internet based e-commerce stores operating under each of their respective Seller IDs, and determined the products were not genuine versions of Plaintiff’s Products and infringed at least one claim of the Plaintiff’s Patent. Id. and Composite Exhibit 1, Complaint Exhibit 4, and De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 23 – 25.⁷

Defendants’ goods are being promoted, advertised, offered for sale, and sold by Defendants to consumers within this district and throughout the United States. Defendants are making substantial sums of money by preying upon members of the general public, many of whom have no knowledge Defendants are defrauding them. Ultimately, Defendants’ Internet activities infringe upon Plaintiff’s intellectual property rights. The Seller IDs, and associated payment accounts, are a substantial part of the means by which Defendants further their scheme and cause harm to Plaintiff.

⁷ See e.g., Gucci Am., Inc. v. Tyrrell-Miller, 678 F. Supp. 2d 117, 119 (S.D.N.Y. 2008) (Plaintiff’s Intellectual Property Manager found that the products offered for sale on the Defendant’s websites were non-genuine counterfeit products, based on a visual inspection of Defendant’s websites); Malletier v. 2016bagsilouisvuitton.com, No. 16-61554-CIV- DPG, 2016 U.S. Dist. III. ARGUMENT

A. THIS COURT HAS PERSONAL JURISDICTION OVER DEFENDANTS

Federal courts “may assert personal jurisdiction over a nonresident of the state in which the court sits to the extent authorized by the law of that state.” AquaPaw Brands LLC, v Yan-Peng, et al., 21-cv-1784 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 62], Aquapaw Brands LLC, v Flo Pet, et al., No. 21-cv-988 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 58] Aquapaw Brands LLC, v Tiktoks, et al., No. 21-cv-696 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 56], AquaPaw LLC v. Allnice, et al., No. 20-cv-1954 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 85]. D’Jamoos v. Pilatus Aircraft, 566 F.3d 94, 102 (3d Cir. 2009) (quoting Provident Nat’l Bank v. Cal. Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass’n, 819 F. 2d 434, 436 (3rd Cir. 1987)). This determination entails a two-step inquiry. First, the court must determine whether the long-arm statute of the forum allows courts of that state to exercise jurisdiction over the defendant. Fed. R. Civ. P. 4 (e) (1) Second, if the forum state allows jurisdiction, the court must determine whether exercising personal jurisdiction over the defendant in a given case is consistent with the Due Process Clause of the U.S. Constitution. See IMO Industries, Inc. v. Kiekert AG, 155 F.3d 254, 259 (3rd Cir.1998). As alleged herein, Defendants’ unlawful, infringing activities subject them to long-arm jurisdiction in Pennsylvania under 42 P. A. Cons. Stat. § 5322. Furthermore, Pennsylvania’s exercise of jurisdiction over Defendants thereunder comports with due process.

1. Defendants are Subject to Personal Jurisdiction Under 42 P.A. C.S.A. § 5322

Pennsylvania authorizes personal jurisdiction over the Defendant pursuant to 42 Pa. Cons. Stat § 5322 (a) which provides in pertinent part: “A tribunal of this Commonwealth may exercise personal jurisdiction over a person ... as to a cause of action or other matter arising from such person: (1) Transacting any business in this Commonwealth. Without excluding other acts which may constitute transacting business for the purpose of this paragraph: (ii) The doing of a single act in this Commonwealth for the purpose of thereby realizing pecuniary benefit... (3) Causing harm or tortious injury by an act or omission in this Commonwealth. (4) Causing harm or tortious injury by an act or omission outside this Commonwealth. . . (10) Committing any violation within the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth of any statute, home rule charter, local ordinance or resolution, or rule or regulation promulgated thereunder by any government unit or of any order of court or other government unit.”

Courts have regularly conferred personal jurisdiction on a given defendant based on that defendant’s operation of a fully interactive website through which consumers can access the site from anywhere and purchase products, as is the case with Defendants’ User Accounts and Merchant Storefronts, and allow for customers all over the world (including within Allegheny County, Pennsylvania) to view and purchase products, including Infringing Products, as demonstrated by the websites themselves and Plaintiff’s purchase of Infringing Products. See Odell Dec., ¶ 2 and Composite Exhibit 1, and De Sousa Dec., ¶ 25 - 28. See n. 4, infra. (Collecting cases in which operating interactive web sites was deemed sufficient to confer personal jurisdiction upon the Court).

Here, by advertising, offering for sale, selling, distributing and shipping retail products directly to consumers across the world, including consumers located throughout the U.S. and specifically in Pennsylvania, Defendants have committed tortious acts, as alleged herein, outside of Pennsylvania, thus directly giving rise to the claims asserted in the instant action. See Odell Dec., ¶ 2 and Composite Exhibit 1; see also Lorillard Tobacco Co. v. Applewood Party Store, Inc., 2006 WL 2925288 (E.D. Mich. 2006) (defendant's local sale of counterfeit "Newport" cigarettes had an economic effect on interstate commerce); A1 Mortg. Corp. v. A1 Mortg. and Financial Services, LLC, 2006 WL 1437744 (W.D. Pa. 2006) (while Plaintiff's provision of services was "predominantly intrastate" in character, its mark was eligible for protection since, even absent an interstate sale, its advertising crossed state lines and, therefore, had entered interstate commerce), see later opinion, A-1 Mortg. Corp. v. Day One Mortg., LLC, 2007 WL 30317 (W.D. Pa. 2007) (court awarded permanent injunctive relief in its award of summary judgment to plaintiff).

Here, the injury clearly occurred within Pennsylvania, as Defendants' Infringing Listings, resulted in consumers throughout the U.S., and specifically in Pennsylvania, purchasing Infringing Products. See Odell Dec., ¶¶ 2 -3 and Composite Exhibit 1. As a direct result of Defendants' counterfeiting and infringing actions, Plaintiff has suffered harm in Pennsylvania through lost sales in Pennsylvania and lost Pennsylvania consumers. See De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 26 - 28.

Accordingly, this Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants who have intentionally availed themselves of the opportunity to do business in Pennsylvania, and specifically in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, through their fully interactive web sites, as well as yet undiscovered online marketplaces, to offer for sale and/or sell Infringing Products. The identified Defendants merely use fanciful and made-up store names or seller ids without complete addresses, contact information, phones numbers and the like). See Ference Dec., ¶¶ 6 - 7;

Defendants used and continue to advertise, market, promote, offer for sale, sell, distribute and/or import Infringing Products to Pennsylvania customers and/or potential customers, including in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. See De Sousa Dec. ¶¶ 26 - 28.

Here, the fact that Defendants have chosen to open their respective User Accounts for the purpose of selling Infringing Products through their Merchant Storefronts, as well as any and all as yet undiscovered online marketplace platforms, alone supports a finding that Defendants have intentionally used these marketplace platforms, “as a means for establishing regular business with a remote forum.” *EnviroCare Techs, LLC v. Simanovsky, No. 11-CV-3458, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 78088, at 10 (E.D.N.Y. June 4, 2012) (quoting Boschetto v. Hansing, 539 F.3d 1011, 1019 (9th Cir. 2008)); *see also Lifeguard Licensing Corp., 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89149, at *8 and EnviroCare Techs., LLC, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 78088, at 10. Courts have indeed found that “commercial sellers” on “well-known, national . . . website[s]” are in fact subject to personal jurisdiction, as these Defendants “must have been able to foresee the possibility of being hauled into court [in the present jurisdiction].” Malcom v. Esposito, 63 Va. Cir. 440, 446 (Cir. Ct. 2003); *see also EnviroCare Techs., LLC, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 78088, at 12.

Whether a Defendant physically shipped Infringing Products into Pennsylvania is not determinative of whether personal jurisdiction exists, as courts in this Circuit examine a given defendant’s online interactions with consumers in considering whether a particular defendant has transacted business in the forum state. See Odell Dec. ¶ 2. See Zippo Mfg. Co., 952 F. Supp. at 1119; Rolex Watch, U.S.A., Inc. v. Pharel, 09 CV 4810 (RRM) (ALC), 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32249, at 6 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 11, 2011) (finding personal jurisdiction over defendant, a resident of South Carolina, because he transacted business in New York by monitoring and responding to inquiries for counterfeit watches through websites accessible in New York). Plaintiff and

Plaintiff's counsel have viewed Defendant's Infringing Products via their online User Accounts and Merchant Storefronts. See Odell Dec., ¶¶ 2 - 3 and De Sousa Dec. ¶¶ 23 - 28.⁹ Thus,

⁹ See Skrodzki v. Marcello, 810 F. Supp. 2d 501, 512-13 (E.D.N.Y. 2011), and that, “[t]he offering for sale of even one copy of an allegedly infringing item, even if no sale results, is sufficient to give personal jurisdiction over the alleged infringer under N.Y. CPLR § 302. Cartier v. Seah LLC, 598 F. Supp. 2d 422, 425 (S.D.N.Y. 2009). Moreover, under Second Circuit case law, when analyzing personal jurisdiction in the Internet context, “traditional statutory and constitutional principles remain the touchstone of the inquiry,” and while a website's interactivity, “may be useful” for analyzing personal jurisdiction ‘insofar as it helps to decide whether the defendant ‘transacts any business’ in New York,’” ... “it does not amount to a separate framework for analyzing internet-based jurisdiction.” Best Van Lines, Inc., 490 F.3d at 252 (quoting Best Van Lines, Inc. v. Walker, No. 03- Civ. 6585 (GEL), 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7830, at *9 (S.D.N.Y. May 4, 2004)) (citing Zippo Manufacturing Co. v. Zippo Dot Com, Inc., 952 F. Supp. 1119 (W.D. Pa. 1997)). Sister circuits similarly rely on the traditional principles guiding the personal jurisdiction analysis when analyzing the same in the Internet context, namely the Eleventh Circuit (see, e.g., Oldfield v. Pueblo De Bahia Lora, S.A., 558 F.3d 1210, 1219-1224 (11th Cir. 2011) (criticizing the over-reliance on the sliding scale of interactivity analysis and instead applying a traditional personal jurisdiction analysis in an Internet case where the website was fully interactive); see also Louis Vuitton Malletier, S.A. v. Mosseri, 736 F.3d 1339, 1356-58 (11th Cir. 2013) (applying the traditional purposeful availment test in a case where defendant's fully interactive website was accessible in Florida, and was selling and distributing infringing goods through his website to Florida consumers), and the Seventh Circuit (see, e.g., Advanced Tactical Ordnance Systems, LLC v. Real Action Paintball, Inc., 751 F.3d 796, 803 (7th Cir. 2010) (addressing the impact of a defendant's online activities upon the personal jurisdiction analysis and reiterating that, as with offline activities, the Court must focus upon the deliberate actions of the defendant within the State)), are instructive in considering whether the exercise of jurisdiction over Defendants in the instant action is appropriate under similar, if not identical facts. For example, courts in the Eleventh Circuit have routinely granted temporary restraining orders, preliminary injunctions and default judgments in online counterfeiting cases where no purchases of the counterfeit/infringing products were made, but the Plaintiff alleged and confirmed that each of the foreign defendants operated fully interactive commercial websites through which they advertised, promoted, offered for sale, and sold products bearing what the plaintiff determined to be counterfeit and infringing trademarks into the U.S., and in interstate commerce, in violation of the plaintiff's rights. See, e.g., Malletier, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 93072, at *3; Mycoskie v. 2016tomshoessaleoutlet.us, No. 16-61523- CIV-GAYLES, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 95963, at 4 (S.D. Fla. Chanelstore.com, No. 15-61156-CIV- CMA, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 179101, at *5 (S.D. Fla. August 31, 2015). Similarly, the Seventh Circuit, in Illinois v. Hemi Group LLC, held that it had personal jurisdiction over the foreign defendants because they operated a nationwide business model where they intentionally created and operated several commercial, interactive websites to offer products for sale and allow online orders from Illinois residents, specifically noting that the “[defendants] maintained commercial websites through which customers could purchase cigarettes, calculate their shipping charges using their zip codes, and create accounts,” and as a result, the “[defendants] stood ready and willing to do business with Illinois residents.” Illinois v. Hemi Group LLC, 622 F.3d 754, 756 (7th Cir. 2010); see also Monster Energy Co. v. Chen Wensheng, 136 F. Supp. 3d 897, 906 (N.D. Ill. 2015) (holding that defendants had “expressly aimed” their actions at the state, making specific personal jurisdiction proper even without a sale made to an Illinois resident, because in addition to intentionally creating and operating commercial, fully interactive AliExpress.com Internet stores through which consumers can purchase counterfeit Monster Energy Products, the defendants had affirmatively selected a shipping option to ship

Defendants’ sophisticated commercial operations, specifically including their offering for sale and/or selling of Infringing Products through their highly interactive User Accounts and Merchant Storefronts, along with Defendants’ own representations on their Merchant Storefronts that they ship Infringing Products to the U.S., including to Pennsylvania addresses, unequivocally establishes that Defendants conduct business within this District and the claims in this suit arise from Defendants’ business dealings and transactions with consumers in Pennsylvania. See Zippo Mfg. Co. v. Zippo DOT Com, 952 F. Supp. 1119 (W.D. Pa. 1997).

2. Exercising Personal Jurisdiction Over Defendants Comports with Due Process

The assertion of personal jurisdiction over Defendants also comports with the Due Process Clause of the U.S. Constitution, as Defendants have “certain minimum contacts ... such that maintenance of th[is] suit does not offend ‘traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.’” Calder v. Jones, 465 U.S. 783, 788 (1984) (quoting Milliken v. Meyer, 311 U.S. 457 (1940)).

This Court may exercise personal jurisdiction when the plaintiff can establish that the cause of action at issue arose from the defendant’s activities within the forum state. Helicopteros Nacionales de Colombia, S.A. v. Hall, 466 U.S. at 414 (1984). The plaintiff initially bears the burden of proving a prima facie case, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the defendant’s contacts with the forum state meet the “minimum contacts” test. Carteret Sav. Bank, F.A. v. Shushan, 954 F.2d 141, 146 (3d Cir. 1992). Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz, 471 U.S. 462, 475 (U.S. 1985); see Best Van Lines, Inc. v. Walker, 490 F.3d 239, 243 (2d. Cir. 2007) (“In the counterfeit products to the U.S., including to Illinois residents, and the Plaintiff’s exhibits showed that the named defendants had specifically offered to sell particular counterfeit products to individuals with Illinois shipping addresses and provided Amazon Pay account number for the buyer to make the payment for the item, and as a result, the defendants expressly elected to do business with the residents of all fifty states, including Illinois).

language of minimum contacts, when the defendants committed ‘their intentional, and allegedly tortious, actions expressly aimed at California, they must have reasonably anticipated being hailed into court there.’”) (internal quotations omitted); Here, the Defendants intentionally directed their activity towards the Pennsylvania market, thereby purposefully availing themselves of “the privilege of conducting activities within the forum State, thus invoking the benefits and protections of its laws.” See De Sousa Dec. ¶ 28. See Odell Dec. ¶ 2 and Composite Exhibit 1. Thus, the Plaintiff has made out a prima facie case, by a preponderance of the evidence that Defendants’ contacts with the Pennsylvania meet the “minimum contacts” test.

Pennsylvania’s long-arm statute provides that jurisdiction may be exercised “to the fullest extent allowed under the Constitution of the U.S. and may be based on the most minimum contact with this Commonwealth allowed under the Constitution of the U.S.” 42 Pa. C. S. A. § 5322(b) (1981). Thus, because Pennsylvania’s long-arm statute is coextensive with the dictates of the U.S. Constitution, the traditional two-step analysis is collapsed into a single inquiry: “whether the exercise of personal jurisdiction would conform with the Due Process Clause.” Poole v. Sasson, 122 F. Supp. 2d 556, 558 (E. D. Pa. 2000); see also Renner v. Lanard Toys Limited, 33 F.3d 277, 279 (3d Cir. 1994) (“[T]his court’s inquiry is solely whether the exercise of personal jurisdiction over the defendant would be constitutional.”). Due process requires that the defendant have “minimum contacts” with the forum state. Remick v. Manfredy, 238 F.3d 248, 255 (3d Cir. 2001) (quoting International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310, 316, 66 S.Ct. 154, 90 L.Ed. 95 (1945)). “Minimum contacts must have a basis in ‘some act by which the defendant purposefully avails itself of the privilege of conducting activities within the forum state, thus invoking the benefits and protections of its laws.’” Remick, 238 F.3d at 255 (quoting

Here, each of the Defendants has used an interactive web site for offering for sale and selling Infringing Products. This Court has personal jurisdiction over each Defendant based upon internet-based sales activity into the US and this judicial district. The seminal opinion in this regard is Zippo Mfg. Co, 952 F. Supp. at 1119. In Zippo, this court established a “sliding scale” analytical framework for internet-based personal jurisdiction cases based upon the “level of interactivity and commercial nature of the exchange of information that occurs on the Web site.” 952 F. Supp. at 1124. The court explained:

[T]he likelihood that personal jurisdiction can be constitutionally exercised is directly proportionate to the nature and quality of commercial activity that an entity conducts over the Internet. This sliding scale is consistent with well-developed personal jurisdiction principles. At one end of the spectrum are situations where a defendant clearly does business over the Internet. If the defendant enters into contracts with residents of a foreign jurisdiction that involve the knowing and repeated transmission of computer files over the Internet, personal jurisdiction is proper. At the opposite end are situations where a defendant has simply posted information on an Internet Web site which is accessible to users in foreign jurisdictions. A passive Web site that does little more than make information available to those who are interested in it is not grounds for the exercise personal jurisdiction. The middle ground is occupied by interactive Web sites where a user can exchange information with the host computer. In these cases, the exercise of jurisdiction is determined by examining the level of interactivity and commercial nature of the exchange of information that occurs on the Web site.

Id.

The Third Circuit endorsed this general framework in Toys “R” Us, Inc. v. Step Two, S.A., 318 F.3d 446 (3rd Cir. 2003), but clarified that the plaintiff must also provide evidence of “the intentional nature of the defendant’s conduct vis-a-vis the forum state.” Id. at 452. In other words, “there must be some evidence that the defendant ‘purposefully availed’ itself of conducting activity in the forum state, by directly targeting its website to the state, knowingly interacting with residents of the forum state via its website, or through sufficient other related contacts.” Id. at 454. See also Mellon Bank (East) PSFS, N.A. v. DiVeronica Bros., Inc., 983 F.2d 551, 556 (3d Cir. 1993) (citing Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz, 471 U.S. 462, 477 (1985))

In the wake of Zippo and Toys “R” Us, most courts have concluded that a defendant that intentionally conducts business transactions over an interactive website with customers in the forum state has purposefully directed itself of the laws of that forum. In Square D, for example, the defendant’s website contained links providing “a [telephone] number and e-mail address for the purpose of placing an order,” information concerning product warranties, and a link that permitted a potential purchaser to “submit a form specifying the manufacturer, catalog number, and quantity of the product to be purchased, as well as the purchaser’s company name, phone, fax and e-mail.” Square D Co. v. Scott Elec. Co., No. 06-459, 2008 WL 4462298, at *3 (W.D. Pa. Sept. 30, 2008). There was also a space on the form for additional “comments” concerning a proposed transaction. Id. Although a customer could not directly order products using only the website, customers could “commence the ordering process” by “provid[ing] much of the same type of information that would be required for an order (e.g., manufacturer, quantity, catalog number, contact information).” Id. at *8, Indeed, the court noted that the website had produced “twenty-four (24) Pennsylvania customers and a total of $10,238.25 in sales” for the defendant. Id. at *9. Although this amount represented “less than 1%” of the defendant’s total sales, the Court concluded that it was sufficient to establish personal jurisdiction in the state of Pennsylvania. Id. As explained by the court:

The website was more than a mere advertisement; rather, it was an interactive site that allowed customers to take the first step in an ordering process that could be completed with one phone call or e-mail. By knowingly selling and shipping a product that is at issue in this litigation to a customer [in] Pennsylvania, the Moving Defendants purposefully availed themselves of the laws and privileges of this forum. Id. at *11.

Willyoung v. Colorado Custom Hardware, Inc. is similarly instructive. Willyoung v. Colorado Custom Hardware, Inc., 2009 WL 3183061 (W. D. Pa. Sept. 30, 2009). In Willyoung, the website at issue allowed visitors to “request a catalog by supplying certain information according to the website prompts, contact the company directly by e-mail, subscribe to [defendant’s] on-line newsletter, and search, view, and select products for on-line purchase via a ‘shopping cart.’” Id. at *12. Over a two-year period, Pennsylvania customers had utilized the website to place 211 orders amounting to $41,566.05 in sales. Id. Based on the foregoing, the court concluded that the defendant had purposefully availed itself of the privilege of conducting business in the state of Pennsylvania by “intentionally and repeatedly engag[ing] in internet-based sales of its products to Pennsylvania residents via its website.” Id. at *13. Other courts have frequently reached the same conclusion. See also Gentex Corp. v. Abbott, 978 F. Supp. 2d 391, 398 (M.D. Pa. 2013) (finding personal jurisdiction where non-resident defendant’s interactive website was used by Pennsylvania residents to place at least 17 orders over a three-year period); TRE Services, Inc. v. U.S. Bellows, Inc., 2012 WL 2872830, *4–5 (W.D. Pa. July 12, 2012) (finding personal jurisdiction based on defendant’s commercially interactive website that accepted orders from Pennsylvania); Gourmet Video, Inc. v. Alpha Blue Archives, Inc., 2008 WL 4755350, *3 (D.N.J. Oct. 29, 2008) (“Personal jurisdiction is properly exercised over a defendant using the Internet to conduct business in the forum state.”); L’Athene, Inc. v. EarthSpring LLC, 570 F. Supp. 588, 593–94 (D. Del. 2008) (defendants purposely availed themselves of doing business in state of Delaware where they operated a website accessible in Delaware, received orders and payments from customers in Delaware, and shipped their products to Delaware). Thus, the Defendants in this case have all offered interactive web sites for viewing, ordering, and paying for the Counterfeit Goods and have purposefully availed themselves of the opportunity to conduct business with Pennsylvania citizens with their respective Merchant Storefronts.

Further there is sufficient evidence to establish the type of “intentional interaction with the forum state” required by the Third Circuit for the exercise of personal jurisdiction. See Toys “R” Us, 318 F.3d at 451–52 (requiring evidence that the defendant has “intentionally interact[ed] with the forum state). See, e.g., Square D., 2008 WL 4462298 at *9 n. 10 (concluding that an amount equal to less than 1% of overall sales was sufficient to establish minimum contacts); Zippo, 952 F.Supp. at 1127 (exercising personal jurisdiction despite that only 2% of the defendant’s customers were Pennsylvania residents); L’Athene, 570 F. Supp. 2d at 593–94 (exercising personal jurisdiction despite that sales to the forum state constituted less than 1% of defendants’ total annual sales based on units sold). As noted in Zippo, “[t]he Supreme Court has made clear that even a single contact can be sufficient.” Zippo, 952 F. Supp. at 1127 (citing McGee v. Int’l Life Ins. Co., 355 U.S. 220, 223, 78 S.Ct. 199, 2 L. Ed. 2d 223 (1957)); see also Square D., 2008 WL 4462298 at *9 n. 10 (noting that, while an argument based on a minute number of overall sales might be “valid in the context of general jurisdiction, in the context of specific jurisdiction it is evidence that supports Plaintiff’s argument that the Moving Defendants purposefully availed themselves of the laws and privileges of Pennsylvania by selling and shipping products to residents of the Commonwealth.”).

Since the Defendants have purposefully availed themselves of the opportunity to conduct business with Pennsylvania citizens through their interactive websites, the Court must next consider whether this litigation “arise[s] out of and relate[s] to” those sales. D’Jamoos, 566 F.3d at 102. Here, the lawsuit directly arises out of the Defendants’ respective sales of Infringing Products to Pennsylvania residents through their interactive websites. See, e.g., Willyoung, 2009 WL 3183061 at *13 (“The second part of our jurisdictional inquiry is also easily satisfied because this litigation arises out of and relates to BGM’s use of its web site to conduct internet-based sales of its merchandise to Pennsylvania residents.”) (internal quotation marks omitted); Square D., 2008 WL 4462298 at *11 (finding the relatedness requirement satisfied where “at least one” of the products sold to a Pennsylvania resident by the defendant was from the allegedly infringing line of products at issue in the litigation). All of the Infringing Products which are the subject of this lawsuit were sold into Pennsylvania. Therefore, the “arise[s] out of and relate[s] to” test is easily met here.

Finally, the Court must consider whether the exercise of jurisdiction would otherwise comport with “traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.” O’Connor v Sandy Lane Hotel Co., Ltd, 496 F.3d 312, 316 (3rd Cir. 2007)(quoting Int’l Shoe, 326 U.S. at 316). Because the existence of minimum contacts makes jurisdiction presumptively constitutional, the defendant at step three of the specific-jurisdiction-inquiry process “must present a compelling case that the presence of some other considerations would render jurisdiction unreasonable.” Id. (quoting Burger King, 471 U.S. at 477). The burden upon the defendant at this stage of the inquiry is considerable. See Pennzoil Prods. Co. v. Colelli & Assocs., Inc., 149 F.3d 197, 207 (3rd Cir. 1998) (noting that if minimum contacts are present, then jurisdiction will be unreasonable only in “rare cases”); Grand Entm’t Group, Ltd., v. Star Media Sales, Inc., 988 F.2d 476, 483 (3rd Cir.1993) (“The burden on a defendant who wishes to show an absence of fairness or lack of substantial justice is heavy.”). As the Third Circuit has observed:

The Supreme Court has identified several factors that courts should consider when balancing jurisdictional reasonableness. Among them are the burden on the defendant, the forum State’s interest in adjudicating the dispute, the Plaintiff’s interest in obtaining convenient and effective relief, the interstate [and international] judicial system’s interest in obtaining the most efficient resolution of controversies, and [t]he procedural and substantive interests of other nations.

O’Connor, 496 F.3d at 324 (internal quotations omitted).

Here, the Plaintiff’s interest in obtaining convenient and effective relief in the forum of its choice and Pennsylvania’s interest in protecting its citizens from the sale of infringing goods within its borders are factors that weigh heavily in finding personal jurisdiction of the Defendants. See Square D, 2008 WL 4462298 at *12 (concluding that jurisdiction should be exercised in Pennsylvania “because the counterfeit goods in question potentially pose a danger to the public and were sold to residents of this Commonwealth.”); Zippo, 952 F.Supp. at 1127 (noting Pennsylvania’s strong interest in resolving trademark infringement claims implicating its citizens and giving “due regard to the Plaintiff’s choice to seek relief in Pennsylvania”). As the court noted in Zippo, “[i]f [the defendant] had not wanted to be amenable to jurisdiction in Pennsylvania, the solution would have been simple—it could have chosen not to sell its [products] to Pennsylvania residents.” Id. at 1126–27.

Accordingly, Plaintiff respectfully submits that this Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants in this action.

B. PLAINTIFF IS ENTITLED TO AN EX PARTE TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER AND A PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

The Patent Act authorizes courts to issue injunctive relief “in accordance with the principles of equity to prevent the violation of any right secured by patent, on such terms as the court deems reasonable.” 35 U.S.C. § 283An ex parte order is essential in this case to prevent immediate and irreparable injury to Plaintiff. Rule 65(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides, in pertinent part, that a temporary restraining order may be granted without written or oral notice to the opposing party or that party's counsel where “it clearly appears from the specific facts shown by affidavit . . . that immediate and irreparable injury, loss or damage will result to the applicant before the adverse party or that party's attorney can be heard in opposition.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 65(b). Further, this court has inherent power to grant an ex parte restraining order. See Link v. Wabush R. R., 370 U.S. 626, 630 – 31 (1962) (“Inherent powers are governed by the ‘control necessarily vested in courts to manage their own affairs as to achieve the orderly and expeditious disposition of cases.’(citation omitted)”). Indeed, the Supreme Court has indicated that federal courts have broad inherent powers to accomplish justice. See Chambers v. Nasco, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 44 (1991).

Defendants herein fraudulently promote, advertise, sell, and offer for sale goods that infringe on at least one claim of the Plaintiff's Patent, via their fully interactive, commercial Internet e-commerce stores using the Seller IDs. *See Complaint Exhibit 4. By their actions, Defendants are passing off Infringing Products as a genuine version of Plaintiff's Products and creating a false association in the minds of consumers between Defendants and Plaintiff. The entry of a temporary restraining order would serve to immediately stop Defendants from benefiting from their wrongful use of Plaintiff's intellectual property at issue and preserve the status quo until such time as a hearing can be held. See Dell Inc. v. BelgiumDomains, LLC, Case No. 07-22674 2007 WL 6862341, at *2 (S.D Fla. Nov. 21, 2007) (finding ex parte relief more compelling where Defendants' scheme “is in electronic form and subject to quick, easy, untraceable destruction by Defendants.”)

Absent a temporary restraining order without notice, Defendants can and, based upon Plaintiff's counsel's past experience, will significantly alter the status quo before the Court can determine the parties' respective rights. In particular, the Seller IDs at issue are under the Defendants' complete control. Thus, Defendants have the ability to modify e-commerce store data and content, redirect consumer traffic to other seller identification names, change payment accounts, and transfer assets. Ference Dec., ¶ 6. Such modifications can happen in a short period of time after Defendants are provided with notice of this action. Id. Defendants can also easily electronically transfer and secret the funds sought to be restrained if they obtain advance notice of Plaintiff's Application for a Temporary Restraining Order and thereby thwart the Court's ability to grant meaningful relief and can completely erase the status quo. Id. As Defendants engage in illegal infringing activities, Plaintiff has no reason to believe Defendants will make their assets available for recovery pursuant to an account of profits or will adhere to the authority of this Court any more than they have adhered to the Patent Act.

“Courts in other circuits dealing with foreign on-line counterfeiters have not hesitated to exercise [their] authority [to grant an ex parte order] in infringement cases in which there is a danger the defendants will destroy, conceal, or transfer counterfeit goods.” Moose Toys Pty, Ltd. v. Thriftway Hylan Blvd. Drug Corp., No. 15- cv-4483-DLI/MDG, 2015 U.S. Dist.. LEXIS 105912, at *8 (E.D.N.Y. Aug. 6, 2015). Moreover, federal courts have long recognized that civil actions against counterfeiters - whose very business is built around the deliberate misappropriation of rights and property belonging to others - present special challenges that justify proceeding on an ex parte basis. See Columbia Pictures Indus., Inc. v. Jasso, 927 F. Supp. 1075, 1077 (N.D. Ill. 1996) (observing that “proceedings against those who deliberately traffic in infringing merchandise are often useless if notice is given to the infringers”); Time Warner Entertainment Co., L.P. v. Does, 876 F. Supp. 407, 410-11 (E.D.N.Y. 1994).

This Court should prevent an injustice from occurring by issuing an ex parte temporary restraining order which precludes Defendants from continuing to display their infringing content via the Internet e-commerce stores or modifying or deleting any related content or data. Only such an order will prevent ongoing irreparable harm and maintain the status quo. The immediate and irreparable harm to Plaintiff's business in denying its Application for an ex parte temporary restraining order, greatly outweighs the harm to Defendants' interests in continuing to offer for sale and sell Infringing Products. Many courts have granted an ex parte temporary restraining order in situations where the harm to Plaintiff far outweighed the harm to defendants¹⁰, including this Court. AquaPaw Brands LLC, v Yan-Peng, et al., 21-cv-1784 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 62], Aquapaw Brands LLC, v Flo Pet, et al., No. 21-cv-988 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 58] Aquapaw Brands LLC, v Tiktoks, et al., No. 21-cv-696 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 56], AquaPaw LLC v. Allnice, et al., No. 20-cv-1954 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 85].

The Third Circuit holds that a district court must evaluate the following four factors in deciding whether preliminary injunctive relief is appropriately entered: (1) the extent to which the moving party will suffer irreparable harm without injunctive relief; (2) the likelihood that the moving party will succeed on the merits; (3) the extent to which the nonmoving party will suffer irreparable harm if the injunction is issued; and (4) the public interest. AT&T Co. v. Winback and Conserve Program, Inc., 42 F.3d 1421, 1427 (3d Cir. 1994). As shown below, Plaintiff readily meet the criteria for obtaining a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction. The “standards which govern consideration of an application for a temporary restraining order are the same standards as those which govern a preliminary injunction.” Local 1814, Int'l Longshoremen's Ass'n v. N.Y. Shipping Ass'n, Inc., 965 F.2d 1224, 1228 (2d Cir. 1992). See also ¹⁰ See, supra fn. 2 (collecting cases granted ex parte temporary restraining order in situations where harm to Plaintiff far outweighed harm to defendants.).

Hall v. Johnson, 599 F.Supp.2d 1, 6 n. 2 (D.D.C. 2009); accord Sterling Commercial Credit-Michigan, LLC v. Phoenix Industries I, LLC, 762 F.Supp.2d 8 (D.D.C. 2011); Coalition for Parity, Inc. v. Sebelius, 709 F.Supp.2d 6 (D.D.C. 2010). As detailed below, Plaintiff has met the standard for a preliminary injunction, and accordingly, a temporary restraining order should also issue against Defendants.

1. Plaintiff Will Suffer Irreparable Harm in The Absence of an Injunction Leaving It with No Adequate Remedy at Law

Defendants' infringing activities must be stopped immediately in order to prevent any further harm to Plaintiff. Not only does Plaintiff stand to suffer lost profits as a result of Defendants' competing substandard Infringing Products, but it destroys the inherent value of Plaintiff's brand, it impairs Plaintiff's reputation for providing quality products, it dilutes Plaintiff's brand and goodwill, and it negatively affects Plaintiff's relationships with its current customers and its ability to attract new customers.

The Plaintiff will suffer irreparable harm through the continued infringement of the Plaintiff's Patent by Defendants. 35 U.S.C. § 154(a)(1) provides "[e]very patent shall contain ... a grant to the patentee, his heirs or assigns, of the right to exclude others from making, using, offering for sale, or selling the invention throughout the United States...." "It is well-settled that, because the principal value of a patent is its statutory right to exclude, the nature of the patent grant weighs against holding that monetary damages will always suffice to make the patentee whole." Hybritech Inc. v. Abbott Labs., 849 F.2d 1446, 1456-57 (Fed. Cir. 1988). "If monetary relief were the sole relief afforded by the patent statute, then injunctions would be unnecessary and infringers could become compulsory licensees for as long as the litigation lasts." Id. at 1457 (quoting Atlas Powder Co. v. Ireco Chems., 773 F.2d 1230, 1233 (Fed. Cir. 1985)).

Accordingly, injunctive relief is an appropriate remedy for patent infringement. See eBay Inc. v. MercExchange, L.L.C., 547 U.S. 388, 394 (2006) (“We hold only that the decision whether to grant or deny injunctive relief rests within the equitable discretion of the district courts, and that such discretion must be exercised consistent with traditional principles of equity, in patent disputes no less than in other cases governed by such standards.”).

Unless the Defendants are enjoined, the Plaintiff will lose its hard-earned market share, which further supports a finding of irreparable harm. Abbott Labs. v. Sandoz, Inc., 544 F.3d 1341, 1361-62 (Fed. Cir. 2008) (citing Purdue Pharma L.P. v. Boehringer Ingelheim GmbH, 237 F.3d 1359, 1368 (Fed. Cir. 2001)); Bio-Tech. Gen. Corp. v. Genentech, Inc., 80 F.3d 1553, 1566 (Fed. Cir. 1996); Polymer Techs., Inc. v. Bridwell, 103 F.3d 970, 975-76 (Fed. Cir. 1996)). In this case, the Plaintiff almost certainly will suffer great and unpredictable harm should Defendants continue their infringing activity.

Defendants are offering their substandard Infringing Products, often in wholesale quantities, at significantly below market prices with which Plaintiff cannot compete given the high-quality materials and construction necessary to manufacture the genuine CLEAVA® and SNAPPY CAMI® brand mock camisoles. See De Sousa Dec., ¶ 14 and Mint, Inc. v. Iddi Amad, No. 10-cv-9395-SAS, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 49813, at *9 , n.23 (S.D.N.Y. May 9, 2011) (“the loss of pricing power resulting from the sale of inexpensive ‘knock-offs’ is, by its very nature, irreparable”) (citing Abbott Labs. v. Sandoz, Inc., 544 F.3d 1341, 1362 (Fed. Cir. 2008) (citing Purdue Pharma L.P. v. Boehringer Ingelheim GmbH, 237 F.3d 1359, 1368 (Fed. Cir. 2001) (likelihood of price erosion and loss of market position are evidence of irreparable harm); Polymer Techs., Inc. v. Bridwell, 103 F.3d 970, 975-76 (Fed. Cir. 1996) (loss of market opportunities cannot be quantified or adequately compensated and is evidence of irreparable harm).

Harm to a patent holder's goodwill also supports issuance of a preliminary injunction. AstraZeneca LP v. Apotex Corp., 633 F.3d 1042, 1063 (Fed. Cir. 2010); see also Reebok Int'l Ltd. v. J. Baker, Inc., 32 F.3d 1552, 1558 (Fed. Cir. 1994) ("Harm to reputation resulting from confusion between an inferior accused product and a patentee's superior product is a type of harm that is often not fully compensable by money because the damages caused are speculative and difficult to measure."). Here, there is ample evidence (see De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 18–29) that Defendants' infringing conduct will irreparably harm the goodwill and reputation of the Plaintiff.

Finally, because Defendants are individuals and business who, upon information and belief, likely reside in the foreign jurisdictions with no U.S. presence, any monetary judgment is likely uncollectable. See Robert Bosch, LLC v. Pylon Mfg. Corp., 659 F.3d 1142, 1156 (Fed. Cir. 2011) (reversing denial of permanent injunction where the likely availability of monetary damages was in question, citing O2 Mirco Int'l Ltd. v. Beyond Innovation Tech. Co., No. 2:04-cv-0032, 2007 WL 869576, at *2 (E.D. Tex. Mar. 21, 2007) where "all three defendants are foreign corporation and that there is little assurance that [plaintiff] could collect money damages"). Furthermore, other district court have found that money damages were insufficient in similar cases involving foreign infringers. E.g., Aevoe Corp. v. AE Tech Co., Ltd., No. 2:12-cv-0053, 2012 WL 760692, at *5 (D. Nev. Mar. 7, 2012) ("[A] finding of irreparable harm was not clearly erroneous because it also found that since AE Tech is a foreign corporation, money damages would be insufficient."); Otter Prods. V. Anke Group Indus. Ltd., 2:13-cv-00029, 2013 WL 5910882, at *2 (D. Nev. Jan. 8, 2013) ("because Anke has no presence in the United States, it may be difficult or impossible to Otterbox to enforce a monetary judgment against Anke");

Bushnell, Inc. v. Brunton Co., 673 F.Supp.2d. 1241, 1263 (D. Kan. 2009) (granting preliminary injunction; “the prospect of collecting money damages from a foreign defendant with few to no assets in the United States tips in favor of a finding of irreparable harm”); Nike, Inc. v. Fujian Bestwinn Industry Co., Ltd., 166 F.Supp.3d 1177, 1179 (D. Nev. 2016) (“[B]ecause Bestwinn has no presence in the United States, it may be difficult or impossible for NIKE to recover a money judgment against Bestwinn”).

For the reasons stated above, Plaintiff will suffer immediate and irreparable injury, loss, or damage if an ex parte Temporary Restraining Order is not issued in accordance with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65(b)(1).

2. Plaintiff Is Likely to Prevail on Its Patent Infringement Claim

Plaintiff has established a likelihood of success on its cause of action for patent infringement. “Section 271(a) of the Patent Act defines direct infringement as ‘whoever without authority makes, uses, offers to sell, or sells any patented invention, within the U.S. or imports into the U.S. any patented invention during the term of the patent therefor, infringes the patent.’ 35 U.S.C. § 271(a).” Grecia v. McDonald’s Corp., 2018 U.S. App. LEXIS 5903, at *7-8 (Fed. Cir. Mar. 6, 2018).

In this case, Plaintiff is the lawful owner of the Plaintiff’s Patent. Plaintiff has submitted extensive documentation showing that Defendants make, use, offer for sale, sell, and/or import in the United States for subsequent sale or use products that infringe directly at least claim 1 of the Plaintiff’s Patent. Odell Dec., Composite Exhibit 1; De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 23 - 25; Exhibit 3 and Exhibit 4 to the Complaint. To show infringement, Plaintiff submits a detailed exemplar infringement claim chart for Plaintiff’s Patent that set forth the text of the patent claim compared with images of the exemplar infringing product. See Exhibit 4 to Complaint. Thus, Plaintiff has shown it is likely to prevail on its patent infringement claims. The Plaintiff's Product is marked in accordance with the Patent Act.

As to validity, “[e]ach issued patent carries with it a presumption of validity under 35 U.S.C. § 282.” Tinnus Enters., LLC v. Telebrands Corp., 846 F.3d 1190, 1205 (Fed. Cir. 2017). “This presumption is sufficient to establish a likelihood of success on the validity issue, absent a challenge by the accused infringer.” Id.

3. Plaintiff Is Likely to Prevail on The Merits of Its Lanham Act Claims¹¹

To prevail on a false designation of origin claim pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) of the Lanham Act, a plaintiff must show: (1) that defendants used a false designation of origin; (2) that the use of the false designation of origin occurred in interstate commerce in connection with goods or services; (3) that the false designation is likely to cause confusion, mistake or deception as to the origin, sponsorship or approval of Plaintiff's goods by another person; and (4) that Plaintiff has been or is likely to be damaged as a result. See AT&T Co. v. Winback & Conserve Program, Inc., 42 F.3d 1421, 1428 (3d Cir. 1994). False designation of origin claims often take one of two forms: “passing off” claims and “reverse passing off” claims. The Supreme Court distinguished the two claims as follows: “Passing off (or palming off, as it is sometimes called) occurs when a producer misrepresents his own goods or services as someone else's. Reverse passing off, as its name implies, is the opposite: The producer misrepresents someone else's goods or services as his own.” Dastar Corp. v. Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp., 539 U.S. 23, 28 n. 1 (2003) (citations omitted).

Although the above sets out the general rule, in cases involving use of a plaintiff's photographs and common law trademarks, courts do not go through a detailed analysis of these four factors. Rather, the focus is on whether a defendant has used plaintiff's photographs to advertise defendant's own products; if the defendant has, Section 43(a) has been violated and an injunction issues. Similarly, when considering infringement of a common law trademark, the focus is on whether use of the same mark by the defendant is likely to create confusion; if there is a likelihood of confusion, an injunction issues. Plaintiff is likely to prevail on the merits of its passing off claim as the evidence shows Defendants have misrepresented the Knock-off Products as Plaintiff's genuine products by using Plaintiff's copyrighted photographs and/or Trade Dress while marketing their knock-off products, and Defendants' actions have created actual confusion between Defendants' knock-offs and Plaintiff's genuine Products.

Defendants' Use of Plaintiff's Photographs¹²

The Lanham Act, including Section 43(a), was enacted in 1946. The very first case to consider whether a defendant's use of a plaintiff's photograph in defendant's advertising was a Section 43(a) violation was L'Aiglon Apparel, Inc. v. Lana Lobell, Inc., 214 F.2d 649 (3d Cir. 1954). The Third Circuit reversed a district court's grant of a defendant's motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, summarizing the case as follows:

Plaintiff, a manufacturer, and defendant, a retailer, are both members of the dress industry, selling dresses in commerce. Each is incorporated in Pennsylvania. Alleging a fraudulent and injurious use of a picture of plaintiff's dress in defendant's advertising, the plaintiff brought this action under the Lanham trade-Mark Act of 1946 for damages and injunctive relief. ...

* * * *

On its face Section 43(a) seems rather clearly to cover the present claim. It provides in relevant part that "Any person who shall * * * use in connection with any goods * * * any false description or representation, including words or other symbols tending falsely to describe or represent the same, and shall cause such goods * * * to enter into commerce, * * * shall be liable to a civil action by any person * * * who believes that he is or is likely to be damaged by the use of any such false description or representation.” Section 39 gives federal district courts jurisdiction of causes arising under this statute regardless of the amount in controversy or the citizenship of the litigants.

The present complaint alleges that plaintiff created and alone sold to the retail trade throughout the country a certain distinctively styled dress. To advertise this dress plaintiff published pictures of it, together with its price, $17.95, in advertisements in leading newspapers and in some two million individual mailing pieces distributed through retailers. In this way the picture and price of this dress became associated in the minds of many readers and identified as plaintiff's $17.95 dress.

It is further alleged that, at about the same time, defendant was offering for sale through mail order and otherwise in interstate commerce a dress which in fact was much inferior to plaintiff's in quality and notably different in appearance. In this connection defendant published under its name in a magazine of national circulation a display advertisement worded and designed to promote the mail order sale of its dress at a stated price of $6.95, but showing as the most prominent feature of the advertisement an actual photographic reproduction of plaintiff's dress, thus fraudulently represented as the article defendant was selling for $6.95. Plaintiff alleges that this misrepresentation caused some trade to be diverted from plaintiff to defendant and caused other trade to be lost by plaintiff as a result of the mistaken impression conveyed to those familiar with the advertising of both parties that plaintiff was offering for $17.95 a dress worth only $6.95.

In relation to the language of Section 43(a) this complaint states about as plain a use of a false representation in the description of goods sold in commerce as could be imagined.

L'Aiglon Apparel, Inc. v. Lana Lobell, Inc., 214 F.2d 649, 650 (3d Cir. 1954) (emphasis added).

It seems that some things never change.

In a 1967 case – pre-Internet – the Plaintiff created, designed, engineered and sold a novelty signal light. The defendant caused to be copied and manufactured in Hong Kong a “Chinese” copy of plaintiff's novelty signal light. In granting a preliminary injunction, the Court stated:

This unfair competition is also sufficient to sustain a cause of action cognizable under Section 43(a) of the Lanham Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C.A. § 1125(a). This Section provides, in pertinent part, that:

"Any person who shall affix * * * or use in connection with any goods or services, or any container * * * for goods, a false designation or origin, or any false description or representation, including any words or other symbols tending falsely to describe or represent the same, and shall cause such goods or services to enter into commerce, and any person who shall with knowledge of the falsity of such designation of origin or description or representation cause or procure the same to be transported or used in commerce or deliver the same to any carrier to be transported or used, shall be liable to a civil action * * * by any person who believes that he is or is likely to be damaged by the use of any such false description or representation."

Plaintiff and defendant are in competition for the signal light market. Suffice it to say that Plaintiff's light appears to be of a higher quality than defendants.

The application of Section 43(a) of the Lanham Act to this type of activity has been firmly established. In a series of cases, the courts have held that defendant may not use a photograph of plaintiff's product to advertise and sell its own less expensive and inferior product.¹³ Such action is clearly unfair competition within the meaning of the statute and may be enjoined under the proper circumstances.

A preliminary injunction has issued even where a defendant has altered the photograph of a plaintiff's product in order to put defendant's trade name or trademark on the product when, in fact, defendant's product was not identical but inferior, National Dynamics Corp. v. John Surrey, Ltd., (Inc.) 238 F.Supp. 422 (S.D.N.Y. 1963), and when all identifying marks have been removed from plaintiff's pictured product. Zandelin v. Maxwell Bentley Mfg. Co., supra. In the latter case, Judge Van Pelt Bryan stated the rationale for these decisions:

"This section [Lanham Act § 43(a)] applies where a defendant advertises its inferior and much cheaper product by featuring a photographic reproduction of plaintiff's product, thus creates the impression that his product is precisely the same as Plaintiff's and Supp. 755 (S.D.N.Y.1964), aff'd, 360 F.2d 1021 (2d Cir. 1966); National Dynamics Corp. v. John Surrey Ltd., 238 F. Supp. 423 (S. D.N.Y.1964); *National Dynamics Corp., v. causes trade to be diverted from plaintiff to himself and other trade to be lost." (197 F.Supp. at 611).

Crossbow, Inc. v. Dan-Dee Imports, Inc., 266 F. Supp. 335, 339-40 (S.D.N.Y. 1967) (emphasis added).

In cases where a defendant has used the plaintiff's photograph in defendant's advertising, courts do not engage in a rigorous factor-by-factor analysis and simply conclude there has been a violation of Section 43(a). See Bangor Punta Operation v. Universal Marine Co., 543 F.2d 1107 (5th Cir. 1976) ("The plaintiff contends that the misappropriation of its advertising material by defendants results in the violation of § 43(a) of the Lanham Act. We agree."); Ebling & Reuss Co. v. International Collectors Guild, Ltd., 462 F. Supp. 716, 720 (E.D. Pa. 1978) (Preliminary Injunction issued where "the advertisements do not depict the cup set actually sold by defendant; rather, they show plaintiff's Taltos set. This, in itself, is a false description or representation, actionable under the Lanham Act."); 1 Federal Unfair Competition: Lanham Act 43(a) § 6:12 (Dec. 2018 Update) ("Generally stated, using one product or its facsimile such as a still photograph or motion picture, or otherwise in an advertisement or promotion, while actually delivering another product even though similar in quality or appearance, has been held actionable under Section 43(a)." (citations omitted).)

As demonstrated in Composite Exhibit 1 and Complaint Exhibit 1, Defendants have used Plaintiff's photographs in Defendants' listings and have caused confusion in the marketplace. Such conduct is a clear violation of Section 43(a) of the Lanham Act. Finally, Plaintiff has also shown that it will likely prevail on its claims for false designation of origin, passing off and unfair competition.

4. Plaintiff Is Likely to Prevail on Its State Law Claims

Because Plaintiff has shown a likelihood of success on its Lanham Act claims, Plaintiff respectfully submits that it has also shown a likelihood of success on its unfair competition claims under Pennsylvania Law. Mateson Chemical Corp. v. Veronon, 2000 WL 680020, at *5 n.7 (E.D. Pa. May 9, 2000). See also Advance Magazine Publr. Inc. v. Vogye Intern., 123 F. Supp. 2d 790, 795 (D.N.J. 2000) (citing A &H Sportswear, Inc., 237 F.3d at 201 - 11.)

5. The Balance of Hardships Favors Plaintiff

The balance of hardships unquestionably and overwhelmingly favors Plaintiff in this case. Here, as described above, Plaintiff has suffered, and will continue to suffer, irreparable harm to its business, the value, goodwill and reputation built up in and associated with the Plaintiff's Products and to its reputation as a result of Defendants' willful and knowing sales of Infringing Products. See De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 21- 28. In contrast, any harm to Defendants would only be the loss of Defendants' ability to continue to offer their Infringing Products for sale, or, in other words, the loss of the benefit of being allowed to continue to unfairly profit from their illegal and infringing activities. "Indeed, to the extent defendants 'elect[] to build a business on products found to infringe[,] [they] cannot be heard to complain if an injunction against continuing infringement destroys the business so elected.'" Windsurfing Intern, Inc. v. AMF, Inc., 782 F.2d 995, 1003 n.12 (Fed. Cir. 1986); Broad. Music, Inc. v. Prana Hosp., Inc., 158 F. Supp. 3d 184, 196 (S.D.N.Y. 2016) (quoting Mint, Inc. v. Amad, 2011 U.S. Dist.. LEXIS 49813, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. 2011) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted)); see also Mitchell Group USA LLC, No. 14-cv-5745-DLI/JO, 2014 U.S. Dist.. LEXIS 143001, at *6-7 (E.D.N.Y Feb. 17, 2014) (citing Philip Morris USA Inc. v. 5 Bros. Grocery Corp., No. 13-cv-2451- DLI/SMG, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 112274 (E.D.N.Y. Aug. 5, 2014) ("Absent an injunction, there will be further erosion of Plaintiff's goodwill and reputation. Defendants, on the other hand, will be called upon to do no more than refrain from what they have no right to do in the first place.")).

6. The Relief Sought Serves the Public Interest

As Plaintiff has demonstrated, Defendants have been profiting from the sale of Infringing Products. Thus, the balance of equities tips decisively in Plaintiff's favor. The public is currently under the false impression that Plaintiff has granted a license or permission to Defendants with respect to the Plaintiff's Patent. In this case, the injury to the public is significant, and the injunctive relief that Plaintiff seeks is specifically intended to remedy that injury by dispelling the public confusion created by Defendants' actions. Since Defendants have willfully and knowingly inserted knock-off Infringing Products into the marketplace, the public would benefit from a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction halting any further sale and distribution of Defendants' Infringing Products. See De Sousa Dec., ¶¶ 23 - 29. As such, equity requires that Defendants be ordered to cease their unlawful conduct.

C. PLAINTIFF IS ENTITLED TO AN ORDER PREVENTING 1) THE FRAUDULENT TRANSFER OF ASSETS AND 2) FREEZING OF DEFENDANTS' MERCHANT STOREFRONTS

1. Defendants' Assets Must be Frozen

In addition, the Court should enter an order limiting the transfer of Defendants' unlawfully gained assets. Plaintiff has demonstrated above that it will likely succeed on the merits of its claims. Furthermore, it is unlikely that Defendants possess the funds to satisfy any potential judgment. Due to the deceptive nature of Defendants' business, and Defendants' deliberate violations of patent law, Plaintiff respectfully requests this Court grant additional ex parte relief restraining the transfer of all monies held or received by Amazon, Alipay, Paypal, Walmart Pay or Context Logic, Inc., or other financial institutions for the benefit of any one or more of the Defendants. See, e.g., Balenciaga Am., Inc. v. Dollinger, No. 10-cv-2912-LTS, 2010 U. S. Dist. LEXIS 107733, at *22 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 8, 2010) (citing Wishnatzki & Nathel, Inc. v. H.P. Island-Wide, Inc., No. 00-cv-8051-JSM, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15664, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. 2000) (“[W]here Plaintiff seek both equitable and legal relief in relation to specific funds, a court retains it equitable power to freeze assets.”); Walter v. Stacey, 837 A.2d 1205 (Pa. Super. 2003) (injunction entered restraining assets in action seeking damages for a wrongful death); Hoxworth v. Blinder, Robinson & Co., Inc., 903 F.2d 186 (1990) (district court has power to issue an injunction in order to protect a future damages remedy; the unsatisfiability of a money judgment can constitute irreparable injury).

This Court has broad authority to grant such an order, and has done so on multiple occasions. See, e.g., AquaPaw Brands LLC, v Yan-Peng, et al., 21-cv-1784 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 62], Aquapaw Brands LLC, v Flo Pet, et al., No. 21-cv-988 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 58] Aquapaw Brands LLC, v Tiktoks, et al., No. 21-cv-696 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 56], AquaPaw LLC v. Allnice, et al., No. 20-cv-1954 (Slip. Op., July 29, 2022)(Wiegand, J.)[ECF No. 85]. . The Third Circuit has ruled that district courts have the power to grant preliminary injunctions to prevent a defendant from transferring assets in order to protect a future damages remedy. Hoxworth v. Blinder, Robinson & Co., Inc., 903 F.2d 186 (1990). Pennsylvania courts have also restrained assets to protect a future damages remedy. Walter v. Stacey, 837 A.2d 1205 (Pa. Super. 2003) (injunction entered restraining assets in action seeking damages for a wrongful death). Moreover, almost every Circuit has interpreted Rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to grant authority to restrain assets pendent elite. See Mason Tenders Dist. Council Pension Fund v. Messera, 1997 WL 223077 (S.D.N.Y. May 7, 1997) (acknowledging that “[a]lmost all of the Circuit Courts have held that Rule 65 is available to freeze assets pendent lite under some set of circumstances”).

An asset freeze in the instant matter is unquestionably warranted because Defendants, who appear to be unknown individuals, that are manufacturing, importing, exporting, advertising, marketing, promoting, distributing, displaying, offering for sale and/or selling Infringing Products to U.S. consumers solely via the Internet, and accepting payment for such Infringing Products in U.S. Dollars through Financial Institutions, thereby causing irreparable harm to Plaintiff in the form of lost sales, loss of goodwill and loss of control of its reputation with licensees, retailers and consumers, can, and most certainly have the incentive to, transfer and hide their ill-gotten funds if their assets are not frozen. See Ference Dec., ¶ 6.

Moreover, to provide complete equitable relief, courts have granted such orders without providing notice to the defendants. Specifically, federal courts have held that where advance notice of an asset restraint is likely to cause a party to alienate the assets sought to be restrained, a temporary restraining order may be issued ex parte. See F.T. Int'l Ltd. v. Mason, 2000 WL 1514881 *3 (E.D. Pa. 2000) (granting ex parte TRO restraining defendants' bank accounts upon finding that advance notice would likely have caused the defendants to secret or alienate funds); CSC Holdings, Inc. v. Greenleaf Elec., Inc., 2000 WL 715601 (N.D. Ill. 2000) (granting ex parte TRO enjoining cable television pirates and restraining pirates' assets); Dama S.P.A. v. Doe, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 178076, at *4-6 (S.D.N.Y. June 12, 2015) (agreeing that, “Plaintiff’s concerns regarding the likelihood of dissipating assets merit the extraordinary remedy of ex parte relief and that there is a strong likelihood that advance notice of the motion would cause Defendants to drain Financial Institution accounts, thereby depriving Plaintiff of the remedy it seeks”) and SEC v. Caledonian Bank Ltd., 317 F.R.D. 358 (S.D.N.Y. 2016) (granting Plaintiff’s request for an ex parte asset freeze based on Plaintiff's assertion that Defendants were foreign entities, and therefore could easily move assets out of bank or brokerage accounts at a moment's notice).¹⁴

In this case, Defendants' blatant violations of patent law warrant an ex parte order restraining the transfer of their ill-gotten assets. Moreover, as Defendants' business are conducted anonymously over the Internet, Plaintiff has additional cause for ex parte relief, as Defendants may easily secret or transfer their assets with the Court's or Plaintiff's knowledge.

2. Defendants' User Accounts and Merchant Storefronts Must be Frozen

A temporary restraining order which, in part, restrains and enjoins the Third Party Service Provider(s), as well as any and all as yet undiscovered online marketplace platforms, from providing services to Defendants' User Accounts and Merchant Storefronts is warranted and necessary because the continued offering for sale and/or sale of the Infringing Products by Defendants on their Merchant Storefronts through their User Accounts will result in immediate and irreparable injury to Plaintiff, as described above. See Gucci Am., Inc. v. Weixing Li, 768 F.3d 122, 126 (2d Cir. 2014) (Hon. Richard J. Sullivan entered a temporary restraining order, which, in part, enjoined the sale of counterfeit goods on the Internet) and AW Licensing, LLC v. Bao, No. 15-cv-1373, 2015 U.S. Dist.. LEXIS 177101, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 1, 2015) (Hon. Katherine B. Forrest entered a temporary restraining order which was subsequently converted into a preliminary injunction, which, in part, disabled the defendants' websites, which were their means of distributing, offering for sale and selling Infringing Products.).¹⁵

One reason why courts have ordered this relief is the ease with which a Merchant Storefront may be set up. For example, a defendant who knowingly sells Infringing Products will likely try and set up another Merchant Storefront to keep selling when the current Merchant Storefront stops working. See Ference Dec., ¶ 6. This brings into play a balancing of the hardship to Defendants against the hardship to Plaintiff if the relief is not granted. In the present case, the hardship to Plaintiff outweighs any hardship to Defendants. The proposed Order does not block any of the enjoined Defendants from setting up another Merchant Storefront to sell non-Infringing Products. The proposed Order merely blocks any goodwill associated with the Merchant Storefront which sold Infringing Products; the Defendants are free to set up a new Merchant Storefront that does not sell Infringing Products.

¹⁴ See also supra fn. 3

¹⁵ See also supra fn. 3

Blocking the good will associated with the Merchant Storefront helps prevent the situation with the defendants where the Infringing Product listing has been taken down but if someone (e.g., a repeat buyer) contacts a Defendant at the Merchant Storefront using the messaging system provided by the online marketplace asking for the Infringing Product, it will be made available by a Defendant. Id. The only way to preclude this type of harm to Plaintiff is to freeze the Defendants' Merchant Storefronts.

A freezing of Defendants' Merchant Storefronts also acts to provide immediate notice of the present action to Defendants. Indeed, a number of cases have required that the domain names on which a defendant's storefront operates be turned over to the plaintiff and pointed to a webpage providing notice of the lawsuit against the defendant. Iron Maiden Holdings Ltd. v. The P'ships & Unincorporated Assns. Identified on Schedule "A", No. 18-CV-522 (N.D. Ill. Feb. 1, 2018) ("Plaintiff may provide notice of these proceedings to Defendants, including notice of the preliminary injunction hearing and service of process pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 4(f)(3), by electronically publishing a link to the Complaint, this Order and other relevant document on a website to which the Defendant Domain Names which are transferred to Plaintiff's control will redirect”). Thus, the freezing of Defendants’ Merchant Storefronts is also a manner of ensuring that Defendants receive notice of the present action.

D. PLAINTIFF IS ENTITLED TO AN ORDER AUTHORIZING EXPEDITED DISCOVERY

Additionally, Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court order expedited discovery from Defendants, Financial Institutions and the Third Party Service Providers regarding the scope and extent of Defendants’ infringing activities, as well as Defendants’ account details and other information relating to Defendants’ Financial Accounts, Assets and/or any and all User Accounts and or Financial Accounts with the Third Party Service Providers, including, without limitation any and all websites, any and all accounts with online marketplace platforms, as well as any and all as yet undiscovered accounts with additional online marketplace platforms held by or associated with Defendants, their respective officers, employees, agents, servants and all other persons in active concert with any of them (“User Accounts”), and any and all User Accounts through which Defendants, their respective officers, employees, agents, servants and all persons in active concert or participation with any of them operate storefronts to manufacture, import, export, advertise, market, promote, distribute, display, offer for sale, sell and/or otherwise deal in products, including Infringing Products, which are held by or associated with Defendants, their respective officers, employees, agents, servants and all persons in active concert or participation with any of them (“Merchant Storefront(s)”) including, without limitation, those owned and operated, directly or indirectly, by the Third Party Service Providers and the Financial Institutions.

District courts have broad power to require early document production and to permit expedited discovery. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b), 34(b).

Expedited discovery may be granted when the party seeking it demonstrates: (1) irreparable injury; (2) some likelihood of success on the merits; (3) some connection between expedited discovery and the avoidance of irreparable injury; and (4) some evidence that the injury which will result without expedited discovery looms greater than the injury that defendant will suffer if expedited discovery is granted. See, e.g., Advanced Portfolio Technologies, Inc. v. Advanced Portfolio Technologies Ltd., 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18457, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 28, 1994).

Generally, a party may not seek discovery prior to a Rule 26(f) conference unless authorized by a court order. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(d)(1). While in the past, Courts have often applied a four-factor test to determine when expedited discovery may be granted,¹⁶ they now apply a more flexible “good cause” test to examine “the discovery request . . . on the entirety of the record to date and the reasonableness of the request in light of all the surrounding circumstances.” Ayyash v. Bank Al-Madina, 233 F.R.D. 325, 326 (S.D.N.Y. 2005) (quoting Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. v. O’Connor, 194 F.R.D. 618, 624 (N.D. Ill. 2000)).¹⁷ Regardless of which test is applied, Plaintiff has established that it is entitled to the expedited discovery requested. Plaintiff has demonstrated both irreparable injury and its probability of success on the merits above, and taking into account the covert nature of ¹⁶ “. . . the plaintiff must demonstrate (1) irreparable injury, (2) some probability of success on the merits, (3) some connection between the expedited discovery and the avoidance of the irreparable injury, and (4) some evidence that the injury that will result without expedited discovery looms greater than the injury that the defendant will suffer if the expedited relief is granted.” Advanced Portfolio Techs., Inc. v. Advanced Portfolio Techs., Ltd., 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18457, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 28, 1994).

¹⁷ See, e.g., Malibu Media, LLC v. Doe, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 64656, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. May 16, 2016); Malibu Media, LLC v. Doe, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 87751, at *2-3 (S.D.N.Y. July 6, 2015); Milk Studios, LLC v. Samsung Elecs. Co., 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 38710, at *4-5 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 25, 2015); Admarketplace, Inc. v. Tee Support, Inc., No., 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 129749, at *3-4 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 11, 2013); Dig. Sin, Inc. v. Does 1-176, 279 F.R.D. 239, 241 (S.D.N.Y. 2012); and Stern v. Cosby, 246 F.R.D. 453, 457 (S.D.N.Y. 2007) (agreeing with the Ayyash Court that the more flexible approach is the better approach.).

Defendants, their business operations and the fact that they appear to be foreign individuals or companies who have both the incentive and the capability to hide or destroy relevant business records and other discoverable information and documentation upon hearing of this action, Plaintiff respectfully submits that there is good cause for this Court to grant Plaintiff the expedited discovery requested herein because it will prevent further injury to Plaintiff and assist Plaintiff in pursuing its claims against Defendants and in recovering the damages to which it is entitled. See Ayyash, 233 F.R.D., at 327.

Despite the likelihood of success of Plaintiff's claims and the injury it has and continues to endure, if this Court were to deny expedited discovery, Plaintiff may lose the opportunity to effectively pursue its claims against Defendants because there are several aspects of Defendants' infringing activities that Plaintiff is not yet able to confirm, including: 1) the true identities of Defendants, 2) the full scope of Defendants' infringing activities, 3) the source or location of Defendants' inventory of Infringing Products and/or 4) where the proceeds from Defendants' infringing activities have gone. See Admarketplace, Inc. v. Tee Support, Inc., No. 13-cv-5635-LGS, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 129749, at *5 (S.D.N.Y. Sep. 11, 2013) (finding that a plaintiff "who has a potentially meritorious claim and no ability to enforce it absent expedited discovery, has demonstrated good cause for expedited discovery"). Therefore, only through an order from the Court allowing expedited discovery will Plaintiff be able to fully ascertain the extent of Defendants' infringing activities.

Plaintiff respectfully requests an ex parte Order allowing expedited discovery in order to permit it to discover certain identifying information, including information concerning all of Defendants' Financial Accounts, Assets and User Accounts and their sales of Infringing Products. The discovery requested on an expedited basis in Plaintiff's [Proposed] Order has been limited to include only that which is essential to prevent further irreparable harm. Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 65(d)(2)(C), this Court has the power to bind any third parties who are in active concert with Defendants that are given notice of the Order to provide expedited discovery. Moreover, Financial Institutions and the Third-Party Service Provider have complied with similar requests for expedited discovery in like actions before this Court. See supra note 6. Plaintiff respectfully submits that its request should be granted.

E. PLAINTIFF’S REQUEST FOR A SECURITY BOND
IN THE AMOUNT OF $5,000 IS ADEQUATE

Generally, a bond is a condition of preliminary injunctive relief. Fed. R. Civ. P. 65(c) requires a successful applicant for a preliminary injunction to post a bond, “in such sum as the [district] court deems proper, for the payment of such costs and damages as may be incurred or suffered by any party who is found to have been wrongfully enjoined.” Thus, the injunction bond “provides a fund to use to compensate incorrectly enjoined defendants.” Instant Air Freight Co. v. C.F. Air Freight, Inc., 882 F.2d 797, 804 (3d Cir. 1989) (quotations omitted).

The injunction bond also serves other functions. “It is generally settled that, with rare exceptions, a [party] wrongfully enjoined has recourse only against the bond.” Id.; see also Hoxworth v. Blinder, Robinson & Co., Inc., 903 F.2d 186, 210 n. 31 (3d Cir.1990) (Applicants “derive some protection from the bond requirement, for [enjoined parties] injured by wrongfully issued preliminary injunctions can recover only against the bond itself.”). Thus, the bond generally limits the liability of the applicant and informs the applicant of “the price [it] can expect to pay if the injunction was wrongfully issued.” Instant Air Freight, 882 F.2d at 805; see also id. at 805 n. 9 (“The bond can thus be seen as a contract in which the court and [the applicant] ‘agree’ to the bond amount as the ‘price’ of a wrongful injunction.”) (quotations omitted).

Plaintiff respectfully submits that in connection with the Court’s order pursuant to its inherent equitable power requiring that the Defendants’ Assets and Defendants Financial Accounts be frozen by the Financial Institutions, Plaintiff’s provision of security in the amount of $5,000 (“Security Bond”) is more than sufficient. This Security Bond is equal to an amount that similar Plaintiff has posted in related cases before Courts, including this one. See generally, Request for Judicial Notice and cases cited therein. See, also. AquaPaw Brands LLC, v Yan-Peng, et al., 21-cv-1784 (Wiegand, J.) Moreover, one New York Court has gone as far as to hold that no security bond is necessary in similar circumstances. See, e.g., Ontel Products Corp. v. Airbrushpainting Makeup Store a/k/a Airbrushpainting, et al., No. 17-cv-871-KBF, Dkt. 20 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 6, 2017).¹⁸

Plaintiff believes that Defendants would be unable to show a strong likelihood of harm, and even if Defendants were to experience a likelihood of harm, such harm is outweighed by the harm to Plaintiff, as detailed above. For these reasons, Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court, in accordance with Fed. R. Civ. P. 65(a), enter the Security Bond in the amount of $5,000.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, Plaintiff respectfully requests that its Application be granted ex parte and that the Court enter: 1) a temporary restraining order; 2) an order restraining assets and Merchant Storefronts; 3) an order to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not issue; and 4) an order authorizing expedited discovery against Defendants, the Third Party Service Providers and the Financial Institutions, in the form of the [Proposed] Order accompanying this Application, and such other relief to which Plaintiff may show they are legally entitled.
